Are you concerned about your child’s development?

Is your child showing early signs of Autism?

UCLA researchers are conducting a free study that may improve social and communication skills in children who have early signs of autism.

You may be eligible to participate if your child:

- Is 12-21 months of age
- Shows delays in smiling, speaking or walking
- Has poor eye contact

Participants may receive:

- Developmental assessments
- Free play-based parent training
