

The Science of Making Friends During COVID-19: The UCLA PEERS® Program

Dr. Elizabeth Laugeson

Associate Clinical Professor

Founder and Director, UCLA PEERS Clinic

Training Director, UCLA Tarjan Center UCEDD

Program Director, UCLA Autism Center of Excellence, Core D

Overview of Lecture

- Social deficits among young people with ASD
- Importance of improving friendships
- Consequences of peer rejection
- Overview of PEERS curriculum
- PEERS intervention strategies
  - Finding a source of friends during COVID-19
  - Starting conversations online
  - Joining conversations online
  - Getting together with friends during COVID-19
- Overview of research
- Resources

Social Deficits Among Young People with ASD

- Poor social communication
  - Problems with topic initiation
  - Use repetitive themes
  - One-sided conversations
- Poor social awareness
  - Difficulty understanding social cues
- Poor social motivation
  - Less social engagement
  - Less involvement in social activities
  - Lack of peer entry attempts
- Poor social cognition
  - Difficulty understanding the perspectives of others

Why Target Friendships?

Having one or two close friends:

- Predicts later adjustment in life
- Can buffer the impact of stressful life events
- Correlates positively with:
  - Self-esteem
  - Independence
- Correlates negatively with:
  - Depression
  - Anxiety

Consequences of Peer Rejection During Adolescence

- Depression
- Anxiety
- Loneliness
- Low self-esteem
- Substance abuse
- Poor academic performance
- Early withdrawal from school
- Suicidal ideation and attempts

Background about PEERS®

- International program

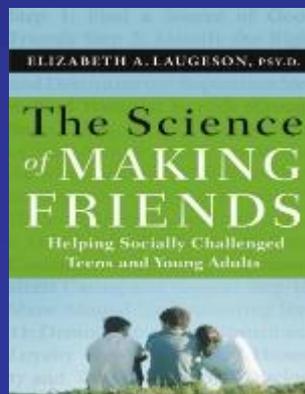

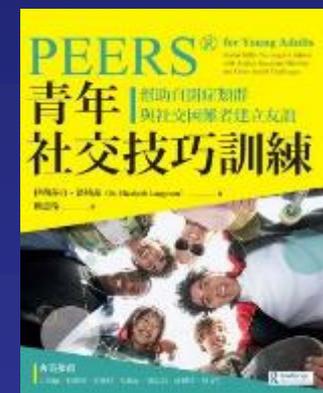

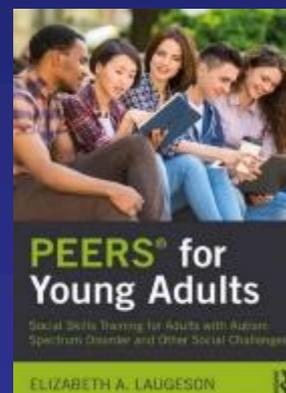

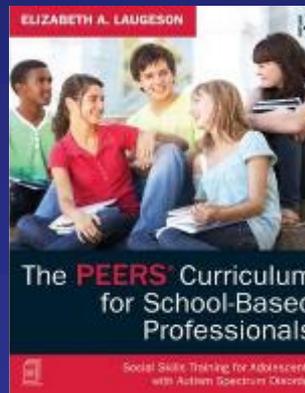

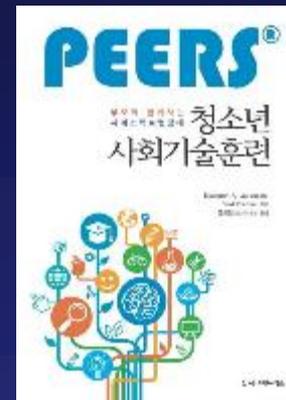

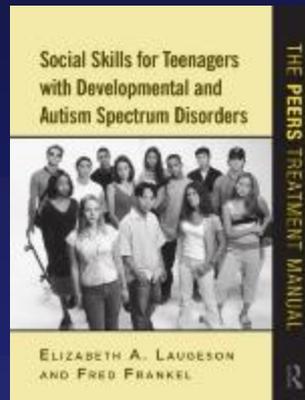

- Developed at UCLA in 2004
- Adolescent program has been translated into over a dozen languages
- Used in over 85 countries

- Evidence-Based Social Skills Programs:

- PEERS® for Preschoolers
- PEERS® for Adolescents
- PEERS® for Young Adults

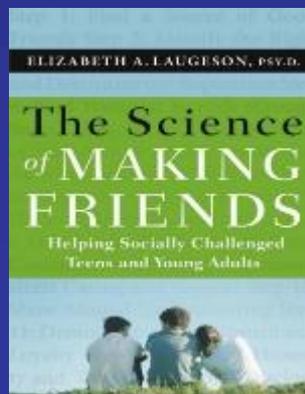

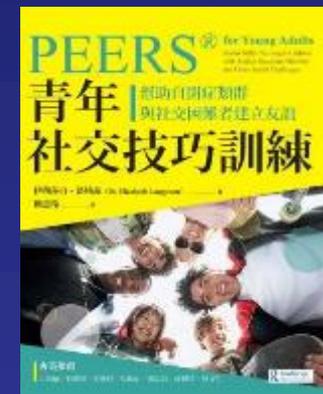

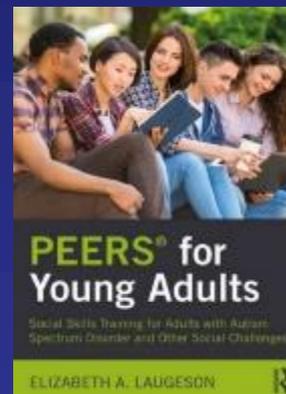

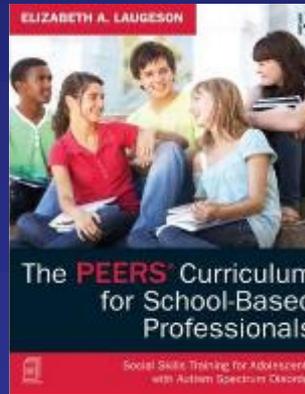

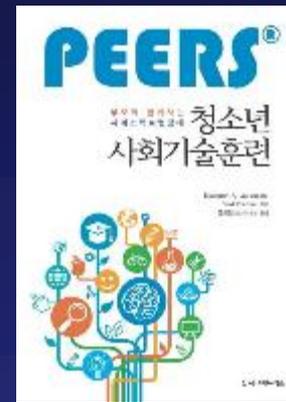

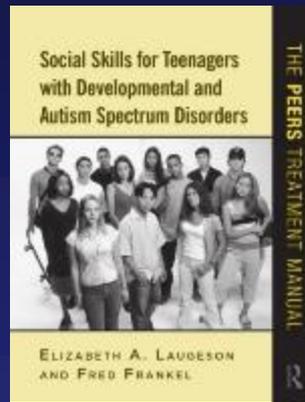

- Research Programs:

- PEERS® for Careers
- PEERS® for Dating
- PEERS® L Dopa

Unique Aspects of PEERS®

- One of the only evidence-based social skills programs
  - ONLY evidence-based social skills program for teens and adults with ASD and other social challenges
- Parent or caregiver assisted
  - Parents and other caregivers are trained as social coaches
- Only teaches ecologically valid social skills
  - Teaches rules and steps followed by socially successful people
- Cross-culturally adapted across the globe
  - Seven scientific papers published outside of the U.S.

PEERS® Targeted Social Skills

Friendship and Romantic Relationship Skills:

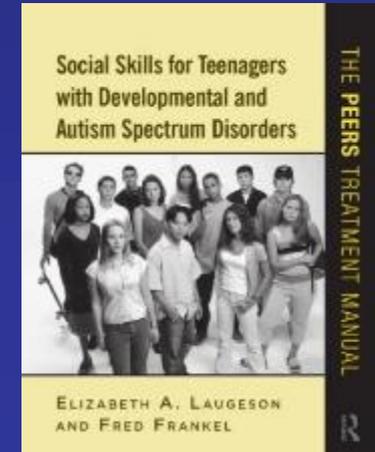

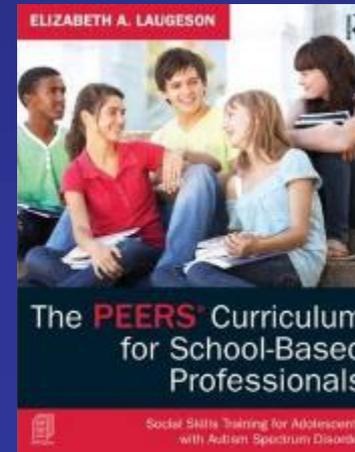

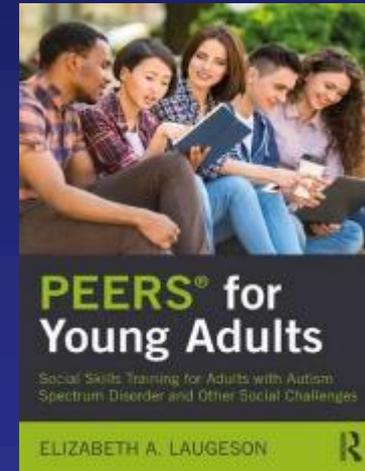

- Finding and choosing good friends and romantic partners
- Conversational skills
- Starting and entering conversations
- Exiting conversations
- Electronic communication
- Appropriate use of humor
- Get-togethers
- Good sportsmanship
- Dating etiquette
  - Letting someone know you like them
  - Asking someone on a date
  - Organizing and planning a date
  - General dating do's and don'ts

PEERS® Targeted Social Skills

Managing Conflict and Rejection Skills:

- Dating etiquette
  - Taking no for an answer
  - Politely turning someone down for a date
  - Handling unwanted sexual pressure
- Handling arguments
- Changing a bad reputation
- Handling direct bullying
  - Teasing and embarrassing feedback
  - Physical bullying
- Handling indirect bullying
  - Cyber bullying
  - Rumors and gossip

Finding and Choosing Friends

- Friendships are based on COMMON INTERESTS
- People often affiliate with specific peer groups or crowds based on their interests
- Peer groups and crowds are important for:
  - Giving us a source of friends
  - Finding potential friends with common interests
  - Protecting us from individual bullying

(Laugeson & Frankel 2010; Laugeson 2013; Laugeson 2014; Laugeson 2017)

Identifying Peer Groups

QUESTION:

What are the different peer groups or crowds for young people?

Different Peer Groups

Jocks/athletes	Computer geeks/techies	Gamers/video game geeks
Sports teams	Science geeks/IT	Nerds
Sports fans	Robotics club	Brains

Music	Go to concerts; join the college band; take music classes; join a music-related meet-up group; join a music club

Finding a Source of Friends in K-12 During COVID-19

- Outschool.com provides online groups for youth K-12
- Traditional subjects:
  - Math, language arts, writing
- Pop culture topics:
  - Dungeons & Dragons, Wings of Fire, Stranger Things
- STEM classes:
  - Coding, engineering, physics, videogames
- Enrichment activities:
  - Cooking, dance, art, music, yoga, meditation

Finding a Source of Friends for Adults During COVID-19

- Meetup.com provides in-person and online groups for adults
- Groups are regional and based on common interests
- Activities are primarily recreational
- Examples of meetups:
  - Movie meetups
  - Gaming meetups
  - Anime meetups
  - Sports fan meetups
  - Alumni groups
  - Cosplay
  - LARPing

The Meetup logo is displayed in a white, cursive script font against a solid red rectangular background. The word "meetup" is written in a lowercase, flowing style with a prominent 't' and a long tail on the 'p'.

Starting and Joining Conversations

QUESTION:

What are most young people told to do to meet new people?

Starting Individual Conversations

QUESTIONS:

How do you start a conversation with another person?

What are some social errors people make when starting conversations?

QUESTIONS:

How do you develop close meaningful friendships?

How do you organize get-togethers with friends during COVID-19?

Online Get-togethers

- Get-togethers and social activities are taking place online due to the COVID-19 pandemic
- Popular platforms for online get-togethers include:
  - Facetime
  - Google hangouts
  - House party
  - Video chat through social media apps
  - Skype
  - Zoom
  - Discord

Common Activities for Online Get-togethers

Interest	Activity
Movies / TV shows	Netflix viewing party
Art	Play Pictionary
Anime	Watch anime online
Food	Make a meal together
Sports	Watch sports together
Videogames	Play online videogames
Fitness	Do a YouTube Workout together
Books	Create an online book club
Games	Play games on Houseparty
STEM	Take an Outschool class

PEERS® Telehealth Pilot Research Outcomes

- Results of the pilot study showed that the treatment outcomes of teens receiving PEERS in-person compared to PEERS via telehealth were equivalent in the areas of:
  - Decreased problem behaviors on the Social Skills Improvement System (SSIS)
  - Increased social skills on the SSIS
  - Improved social responsiveness on the Social Responsiveness Scale (SRS)

PEERS® Telehealth Pilot Research Outcomes

Effectiveness of the Program for the Education and Enrichment of Relational Skills (PEERS®) Delivered Via Telehealth

Christopher Miyake, Marlena M. Novack, Esther Hong, Dennis Dixon
Center for Autism and Related Disorders, Inc.

INTRODUCTION	PROCEDURES	RESULTS
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Advances in technology have made the remote delivery of treatment via telehealth more versatile and accessible to the public, opening the door for its use in autism intervention.</li> <li>The Program for the Education and Enrichment of Relational Skills (PEERS®) is a parent-assisted social skills intervention specifically aimed to teach middle school or high school adolescents how to make and keep friends.</li> <li>Existing research demonstrates the effectiveness of PEERS® when administered in in-person group training sessions in university settings (Laugesen et al., 2009); however, logistics involved in conducting training in community settings (e.g., family availability, clinician training, geographical restrictions, etc.) can make administering such training difficult.</li> <li>The purpose of this study was to investigate whether remote delivery of a social skills training program can improve outcomes in adolescents with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The 14-week curriculum was split into two nights, a parent night followed by a teen night the day after. Each session lasted approximately 90 minutes. In person PEERS® groups are traditionally held on the same night, but for this model the groups were separated into two nights as some families only had access to one reliable computer with a webcam.</li> <li>The PEERS® curriculum covers 14 topics: Trading Information, Two-Way Conversations, Electronic Communication, Choosing Appropriate Friends, Appropriate Use of Humor, Entering a Conversation, Exiting a Conversation, Get-Togethers, Good Sportsmanship, Teasing and Embarrassing Feedback, Bullying and Bad Reputations, Handling Disagreements, Rumors and Gossip.</li> <li>The class was delivered via a HIPAA compliant video chat room that used an online white board for discussions.</li> </ul> Changes to the Teen Sessions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>In-person groups utilize a combination of live role play and video examples of appropriate and inappropriate social interactions. The telehealth model only used video examples.</li> </ul> All PEERS® topics were discussed in the telehealth model. - Findings suggest telehealth may be an effective delivery model for teaching social skills to youth with ASD.
- While telehealth shows promise of being an effective form of delivery, the technology required to participate is a limitation for some families.
- Due to the changes made in the remote program, additional research is needed to evaluate treatment outcomes.
