The UCLA Tarjan Center is excited to announce our new podcast series! Each episode offers a discussion with presenters from our Tarjan Distinguished Lecture series. Facilitated by Kecia Weller, Self-Advocate Community Liaison, our goal is to provide a more accessible, plain language presentation of our lecture series to our community.

In our first episode, Dr. Camille Wilson, Dr. Jasper Estabillo, and Sapna Shetty, IMFT-S talk about important cultural considerations needed when working with Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) families during the developmental disability assessment process.

Episode 1: Using Silence to Hear the Voices of the AAPI Community in Autism Diagnosis and Treatment  Spotify

Or view on Anchor at https://anchor.fm/tarjan-center